About My Blog

I founded BusinessOfSport.Net in 2016 due to a huge interest and understanding of how sport is increasingly being affected by wider economic and business issues. It aims to analyse issues in the industry, dive deep into little known stories, interview key people and also review products and services. The site is generating 500+ hits a month primarily from the UK, Ireland and US. Simply put, #sportsbiz has never been more important.
